What information do we collect about you?

We collect information about you when you engage with us for compliance services or prospective compliance services. This information will relate to your personal information such as name, business phone number, job title and business email address.

We may also collect information when you voluntarily complete forms or send us information, such as client surveys or provide feedback to us.

We will collect and process the information that you have provided by filling in forms on our website, as well as email and telephone requests. We may also ask you for information relating to the services to be provided to you or when you report a problem with our site. We will also collect and process details of all information provided to us by you through our website.

We may collect information about your computer, including your IP address, operating system, and browser type, for system administration and analytical purposes. While this information helps us understand browsing actions and patterns, we take steps to ensure it does not directly identify individuals unless necessary for security or legal reasons. We also collect personal data when undertaking the recruitment of permanent and temporary workers, in line with our employee privacy notice.

Managing Cookies

You can control or delete cookies using your browser settings. For more detailed information, visit <http://www.allaboutcookies.org>.

Your Consent

By using our site, you agree to the placement of these cookies. You can manage your cookie preferences or withdraw consent at any time using our cookie management tool.

These changes will make your cookie policy more transparent and compliant with UK legal requirements, ensuring users are fully informed about the cookies being used and their rights to manage or refuse them. Consent for strictly necessary cookies is not needed.

Why do we need to collect and use your personal data?

The primary legal basis that we intend to use for the processing of your data is for the performance of our contract with your organisation. The information that we collect about you is essential for us to be able to carry out the services that you require from us effectively. Without collecting your personal data we'd be unable to deliver our services or fulfil our legal and regulatory obligations.

Your details will have been obtained from several sources, these include yourself, Companies House, third parties (e.g. Trade Associations and consultants external to our business) and online resources. Data in the public domain is also collated.

Our documentation and policies are reviewed to ensure compliance with Data Protection and UK GDPR, specifically to make clear reference to privacy which deals with the handling of personal data.

Who might we share your information with?

To deliver our services to you effectively we may send your details to trusted third parties such as regulatory bodies, The Environment Agencies / DEFRA, and those we engage for professional compliance, data services, accountancy or legal services as well as product and platform providers, such as contractors for IT services.

Where third parties are involved in processing your data, we'll put in place a contract with them to ensure that the nature and purpose of the processing is clear, that they are subject to a duty of confidence in processing your data and that they'll only act in accordance with our written instructions.

Where it's necessary for your personal data to be forwarded to a third party we'll use appropriate security measures to protect your personal data in transit. Our website has been upgraded to the latest Microsoft platforms and security and also uses encrypted HTTPS connections.

International Transfers

Our newsletter service provider, Mailchimp (now part of Intuit Inc.), may transfer your personal data to servers located outside the UK and EU, including to the United States. To ensure your personal data is protected during such transfers, we rely on the UK-US Data Bridge, effective from 12 October 2023, which allows transfers to US companies certified under the UK extension of the Data Privacy Framework (DPF). This ensures your data is handled in line with UK GDPR standards.

Where personal data is transferred to other countries without an adequacy decision (such as outside the EEA or countries not covered by the DPF), we use Standard Contractual Clauses (SCCs) or other relevant safeguards to protect your data. These legally binding agreements ensure that your data receives the same level of protection as within the UK.

For more information on certified organisations under the DPF, please visit the official Data Privacy Framework List. Mailchimp and Intuit Inc. also process personal data in accordance with their Global Privacy Policy and data processing addendum, ensuring compliance with applicable data protection standards.

How long do we keep hold of your information?

We will retain your personal data only for as long as necessary to fulfil the terms of our contract and in accordance with data protection legislation. However, we are subject to regulatory requirements that may oblige us to retain data for certain minimum periods. Typically, client personal data related to the terms of business is kept for a maximum of 6 years, though in some cases, we may need to retain it for longer to meet legal or regulatory obligations. In any event, we will not retain your personal data for longer than is necessary.

Please contact us, should you wish to see a copy of our detailed retention schedule.

Your Data Protection Rights

Under UK GDPR, you have the following rights regarding your personal data. Please note that these rights are not always absolute and may be subject to certain legal or regulatory limitations:

1. The Right to Access: You can request a copy of the personal data we hold about you.

2. The Right to Rectification: If any of the data we hold is inaccurate or incomplete, you can request that it be corrected.
3. The Right to Erasure (also known as the "right to be forgotten"): You can request that we delete your personal data. However, this may be subject to restrictions due to our regulatory obligations or legitimate interests.
4. The Right to Restrict Processing: You can request that we limit the processing of your personal data in certain circumstances.
5. The Right to Data Portability: You can request that we transfer your personal data to another organisation in a machine-readable format.
6. The Right to Object: You have the right to object to the processing of your data under certain conditions, especially in cases of direct marketing.
7. Rights in Relation to Automated Decision-Making and Profiling: You can challenge decisions made purely on automated processing, including profiling, where it produces legal effects concerning you.

These rights may not apply in all circumstances. For example, certain data may need to be retained due to legal obligations or ongoing legitimate business interests. For more detailed information about your rights, please visit the ICO website.

How can I access the information you hold about me?

You have the right to request a copy of the information that we hold about you. This is known as a subject access request or the right of access. If you'd like a copy of some or all of your personal information or would like to exercise any of your other rights, please email or write to us using the contact details noted below.

Exercising Your Rights

Exercising your data protection rights is generally free of charge, and we aim to respond to all requests within 30 days. However, if your request is complex or involves multiple requests, we may require more time and can extend this period by up to an additional two months. In such cases, we will inform you of the delay and provide an explanation within the initial 30-day period.

In rare circumstances, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request is deemed to be manifestly unfounded or excessive, particularly if it is repetitive.

For further details about your rights, you can visit the ICO website.

If you prefer not to receive information from us, including our newsletter, events and information, please email help@wastepack.co.uk.

We have an obligation to ensure that your personal information is accurate and up to date. Please ask us to correct or remove any information that you think is incorrect and let us know of any changes.

Security Measures

We take the security of your personal data seriously. We use encryption technologies to protect your data both during transmission and while it is stored on encrypted cloud platform or internal servers.

Our systems are secured to prevent unauthorised access, with appropriate clearance can access stored information, and this access is continuously monitored. Access to personal data is restricted to authorised personnel who are trained in data protection protocols.

Our systems are protected by next generation firewalls and intrusion detection systems. Regular security audits and data backups are performed to ensure the ongoing security of the data. We have protocols in place to manage any data breaches, including notifying affected individuals and relevant authorities as per the required legal timeframes.

Marketing

We'd like to send you information about our services and those of other companies in our group which may be of interest to you. If you've agreed to receive marketing information, you may opt out at any time. You have the right at any time to stop us from contacting you for marketing purposes or giving your information to other members of the group. If you no longer wish to be contacted for marketing purposes, please contact us by email.
